PREFACE

Every effort has been made to have this Decennial Cumulative Index to the Monthly Catalog as accurate and as useful as possible in locating by subject material published by the United States Government from 1941 to 1950. During this period significant changes took place in the manner of preparation of the Monthly Catalog. One change of particular importance to users of this index was the addition of individual entry numbers for material listed in the Monthly Catalog beginning with the September 1947 issue. Because of this, citations in the index to entries previous to September 1947 (with the exception of the Supplements for 1941–42, 1943–44, and 1945–46) are to page numbers while all others are to individual entry numbers.

Where titles or principal subject phrases of publications changed during the 10-year period, the index entries have been resolved into a comprehensive subject phrase or in some cases combined under the later style of entry. For example, chapters from the Minerals Yearbook had been variously called and indexed as Preprints from the Minerals Yearbook, Chapters from the Minerals Yearbook, Minerals Yearbook Separates, and Reprints from the Minerals Yearbook. In the Decennial Index these have been combined under the phrase Minerals Yearbook chapters.

As another example, the current Federal Supply Schedule was formerly called General Schedule of Supplies. Where there are entries in the Monthly Catalog under both titles for a particular subject, all index entries have been combined under the current phrase, Federal Supply Schedule.

In coordinating the index entries under large subjects, many subheads have been established and consistent patterns of treatment worked out. Where possible, obsolete and archaic subjects have been eliminated and modern usage has been substituted. For example, material formerly indexed under Trusts (Industrial) has been put under Monopoly since most of it relates to that subject, and the industrial trust is no longer an important form of business organization.

Some index material which appeared in the indexes to the Monthly Catalog during the earlier years of the decade has been eliminated from this cumulation because it did not relate to actual entries in the Catalog. Added entries for authors of individual publications have also been eliminated since these were not included in the later years' indexes, but the bureaus, departments and agencies as authors of series and serial publications have been included. Authors of individual publications have been omitted because the emphasis in the index to the Monthly

Catalog is now on subject rather than title and author. Some of the series under Congressional Committees show gaps over the 10-year period. Calendars, for example, were not entered in the Monthly Catalog during some of the years due to their administrative nature, and during 1947 and 1948 series author entries for hearings and reports were omitted.

Preparation of this index was directed by Joseph A. King, Chief of the Library, Division of Public Documents, assisted by a library staff committee composed of Margaret B. Wilson, Chief of the Catalog Section, Eileen S. Henderson, Ruby L. McDermid, Edith O'Brien, Lois C. Peterson, and E. Bernice Wood.

ROY B. EASTIN,
Superintendent of Documents.
